Maroons Win By One Point.

Second teams tie in opener 10-10.

In a hotly contested game at the Rink last Friday evening, the Maroons defeated the Blacks by one point, 13-12, in the first basketball game played by members of the Wrangell Athletic Club. The teams both played a careful game which improved in open team-work as the game progressed and in the last half, some excellent basketball was seen, showing that practice can develop some fast teams.

In the opener, the second teams of the Black and Maroon lists, tied up with a score of 10-10. In the second teams, many of the players had never taken part in a contest and an occasional shot at the wrong basket and pass in the wrong direction gave amusement to the crowd. The tie was not played off on account of the spectators being anxious to see the first teams clash.

Another game may be played on the 14th which will be announced next week if the arrangements can be made.

Firemen Meet.

Six members taken into the Company. Committee appointed to arrange dance for February 21.

Six new members were elected to membership at the regular meeting of the Alert Fire Company at the Town Hall Monday evening. The new fighters are: Oscar Case, Chas. Lynch, Clarence Lewis, Clarence Brown, Lawrence Horgheim and R. Shangle.

J. E. Worden, Ernest Campbell and H. Dawes were appointed as a committee to arrange for the annual Firemen's Ball which as the 22nd falls on Saturday will be held on the evening of the 21st this year.

Groundhog vs. Weatherman.

Between them and the heating problem where do the common people get it?

(Example of up-to-the-minute headline story.)

Alaska Balance Nearly 20,000,000.

The imports to Southeast Alaska nearly doubled last year, the total value of the 1912 importation being $9,692,224.00 as compared with $5,492,416.00 in 1911, according to the figures of the annual costumes report issued from the capital January 31st. Of the ten important places, Loring, Haines, Treadwell and Sitka, declined in importations while Wrangell, Ketchikan, Juneau and Skagway, each more than doubled the totals for 1911.

The total trade of all Alaska, valued at $72,741,060, is 27 per cent higher than that for any previous year and the balance in her favor amounts to almost $20,000,000.

North America Third In Mountain Heights.

Since the discovery of Mount McKinley in Alaska, North America has ranked third among the continents in the matter of height of mountains. Asia has Mount Everest, of the Himalayas, 29,002 feet above sea level, and South America has Mount Aconcagua, of the Andean system, 23,080 feet in height. North America comes next with Mount McKinley, 20,300 feet, and Africa is fourth, with Kibo Peak, 19,320 feet in height. Mount Blanc, Europe's highest mountain, is 15,782 feet in height, which is higher by more than a thousand feet than any mountain in the United States, exclusive of Alaska.

Stolen Goods Are Returned to Point Ward.

F. E. Barlow, Supt. of the Point Ward cannery, was a passenger north on the Jefferson and with the launch, Duckland, succeeded in returning the goods stolen from the cannery by Hopkins and Roberts.

The Deserter.

"The Deserter" is the title of the feature picture in two reels at Bender's show tonight. Quite a little interest is being evidenced as the result of the diligent advertising of the manager, S. Mynock who says the scenes are very realistic and exciting.

Senator La Follette has announced that he will fight for Alaska coal land claimants.

Would See Alaska.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, the famous actress, has recently expressed her wish to tour Alaska and has the Portland manager of the Orpheum Circuit to make inquiries for her regarding the trip. Mme. Bernhardt has played in every other part of the globe and wishes to appear here. The probable appearances in Southeastern Alaska will be Ketchikan and Juneau and many local people have expressed an intent on making a trip to one of these towns for an opportunity to hear the famous actress.

Advance Cannery Crews Arriving.

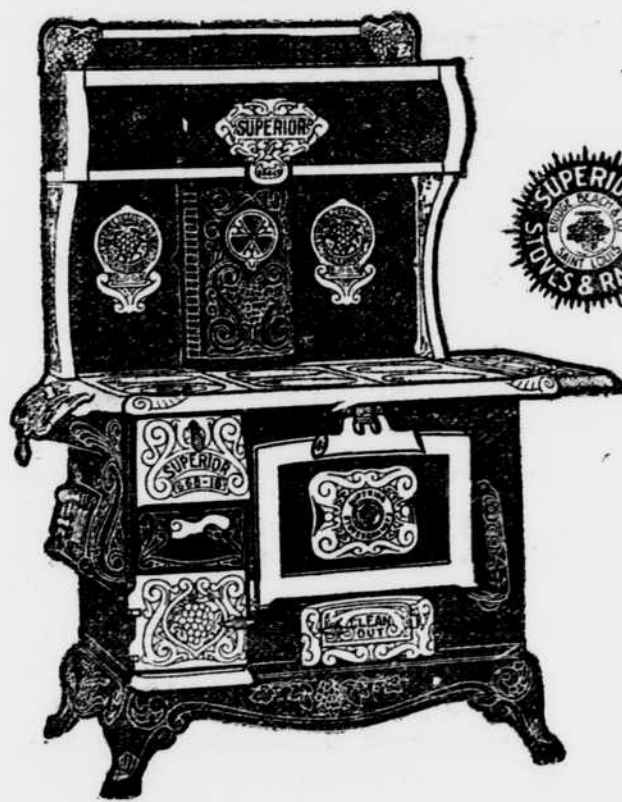

The vanguard of the crews of Southeastern Alaska canneries are already being brought north from southern ports. The Curacao landed advance crews this trip at Burnette Inlet, Funter Bay and Kake. The early activity this season will probably be directed toward driving traps, a large number of which were located last season.

Alaska Kelp Beds Will Be Surveyed.

University of Washington Botanists Designated to Do the Work Under Government Direction.

The United States government has enlisted the services of two members of the faculty of the University of Washington, Dr. Theodore C. Frye, professor of Botany, and George B. Rigg, instructor in botany to head parties of botanists to make a survey of the beds of kelp in Alaskan waters during the coming summer. The party led by Professor Frye will investigate the Sitka region, and the botanists under Mr. Rigg will survey the Kodiak region. Both parties will leave Seattle during the month of May, at which time the kelp is of large size.

The survey of the kelp beds of Alaskan waters will be conducted under the direction of Dr. Frank K. Cameron, in charge of the fertilization investigation of the bureau of the federal department of agriculture.

On January 29th, Thomas A. Edison inventor of the Phonograph and manufacturer of motion picture apparatus, realized one dream of his life—combination of the two. The new stunt was placed at the Edison laboratory and won high praise from spectators. Speech and mechanical sounds as of musical instruments and crashing dishes were produced in nearly perfect synchronism with motion photos of the acts.

VALUABLE PILING TIMBER.

British Guiana Greenheart Used in Panama Canal Locks.

The secretary of the institute of mines and forests of British Guiana in a book of information which is issued as an official document writes as follows:

There are three varieties of greenheart—yellow, black and maintop—all most serviceable and durable woods if cut at maturity. Greenheart is one of the tallest forest trees of British Guiana, and logs can be had from eighteen to twenty-four inches square and seventy feet long. It grows in clay soil near the rivers and creeks. Owing to the great demand for this timber and the absence of legal restriction to prevent the cutting of the young trees it is becoming extremely difficult to produce good greenheart, and its preservation is worthy of the attention of the legislature.

Greenheart is already familiar to the trade, being highly esteemed for all classes of submerged work—piles, dock gates, etc. It is one of the eight first class woods of Lloyd's, and admirable keelsons, knees and other timbers can be had of it. Sawed into scantling it is used for planking vessels. For wharfs, house framing, mill timbers and many other purposes greenheart is unsurpassed by any other wood in the colony.

The Panama consulting engineers after a comparison of the world's woods have adopted British Guiana greenheart for the Panama canal locks, regarding it as superior to Australian ironback wood in its resistance to the teredo.

Though the excellence of greenheart has never been so prominently brought before the notice of the world, its durability and suitability for lock gates are widely known. Most of the lock gates constructed in the Mersey during the last twenty years have been made with it, as have those at the Manchester ship canal, and when the necessity occurred for enlarging some of the canal lock gates fully thirty years after they were placed in position it was found that the wood was in such an excellent state of preservation that it could be used over again.

Ship With Three Skins.

The launching of the Iron Duke at Portsmouth, England, recently, marks a new era in British naval construction. The vessel is the twenty-eighth British Dreadnought to take the water. Her displacement is 26,400 tons, and her main battery consists of ten 13.5 inch guns firing shells of 1,400 pounds, or 150 pounds more than the projectiles fired by former weapons of this caliber.

The chief feature, however, of the new Dreadnought is the improvement that she demonstrates in her protection against submarine attack. Over the whole length of the "vitals" from the first turret to the last the hull of the ship consists of three separate skins, so that even if the two outer ones should be pierced by rocks or torpedoes the stability of the vessel would not be impaired.

Producing Tungsten Wire.

Ductile metallic tungsten is now produced in the electric furnace. Tungsten particles have been hitherto welded into a continuous filament by passing an electric current through a blinding material containing the metallic particles and driven off by the high heat. By this new method the metallic tungsten can be drawn into fine wire much stronger and more rugged than the sintered filaments.

ROTARY BORING DRILL

Removable Hard Steel Cones Grind
Rapidly Through Rock.

For sinking oil and artesian wells
through hard rock a new rotary drill bit, the invention of a Texas oil producer, is coming into very general use, says Popular Mechanics. Instead of scraping its passage through rock,
as did the old one piece bits, this new instrument crushes its way downward
at a rate many times that of the old bits.

The illustration suggests at once how the bit accomplishes its work. When rock is encountered the dirt bit is re-

ROTARY BIT WITH EXTRA CONES.

placed by the rock bit, which screws
on to the pipe by means of the large collar. The pipe revolves with its total weight resting on the rollers.
These are thus made to turn by friction, and their hard steel teeth powder
the rock beneath rapidly. The flow of water downward through the pipe and up on the outside washes away the powdered rock as fast as it is produced. A small pipe inside of the collar contains lubricating oil and a metal float which forces the oil through canals to the cones. The hardest alloy steel is used in manufacturing the bit. The cones are easily removed and replaced with new ones when they have become worn.

A New Elixir of Life.

Dr. Frank R. Starkey of Philadelphia, in a serious report that has startled the medical world, has made known to the public some remarkable results of a series of experiments on which he has worked for several years,
first on his aged mother, then on himself and fifty friends. His object was to find an extract from the various ductless glands of the body which will prolong life and make the aged look and feel much younger. Dr.
Starkey says he is a living testimonial
of his success, as the treatment he has taken has made him look ten years younger, and that the same is true of others. He calls his remedy the "polyglandular extract" and says it is a combination of extracts from the thyroid, pituitary and other ductless glands.
It is administered by injections into muscles or blood. It is said to raise the defensive power of the blood
against serious poisons or disease
germs.

Burial Caskets of Cement.

A burial casket or rough box made of cement has been invented by a citizen of Prescott, Ont., and a company
has been formed to place the product on the market. The caskets have been used for some time and are reported entirely satisfactory. The claim is made by the inventor that fine caskets
of wood or metal, as well as the body
and its clothing, are preserved in this cement outer case secure from dampness, no matter what the condition of the soil.—Consular Reports.
